DEFENDANTS' RESPONSE TO THE COURT'S ORDER
 REGARDING A PROPOSED
 HEALTH CARE INJUNCTION

INTRODUCTION

2 This Court's determination, made pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act (APA), 3 that Army Regulation (AR) 70-25 imposes a duty on the Army to provide medical care to Plaintiffs 4 was affirmed by the Ninth Circuit in Vietnam Veterans of America v. Central Intelligence Agency, 5 811 F.3d 1068 (9th Cir. 2016), but the Court of Appeals reversed this Court's determination that 6 an injunction was not warranted in light of the availability of health care from the Department of 7 Veteran's Affairs (VA). See Nov. 19, 2013, SJ Order, ECF 544 at 47-51. On remand, the Court 8 ordered the parties to meet and confer, and to submit either a stipulated injunction, or competing 9 proposed injunctions along with a brief supporting the party's proposal and explaining why it 10 objects to the other party's proposal. Feb. 8, 2016 Order, ECF 572. This is Defendant's¹ 11 submission in response to that Order.

13 As a threshold matter, Defendant preserves its position that there is no basis for the issuance 14 of any injunction in this case. While this Court was reversed for "categorically" denying injunctive 15 relief given the availability of VA medical care, the Court of Appeals did not address whether and 16 in what manner this Court might nonetheless take into account, in formulating any injunction, 17 whether "the medical care available from the VA would be equal in scope and quality to the 18 medical care that Plaintiffs claim is owed to them by the Army." See VVA, 811 F.3d at 1082.
19 Accordingly, it appears to remain open for this Court to consider the scope and quality of VA care 20 as compared to the medical care that could be provided by the Army in deciding whether an 21 injunction is warranted. As set forth below, when considering the respective missions, number 22 and scope of facilities, and range of services provided, the VA health care system provides more 23 comprehensive care than would be provided directly by the Army through military Medical 24 Treatment Facilities (MTFs). See Declaration of COL Brian A. Hughes, U.S. Army Medical 25 Command.

26

¹ The District Court granted summary judgment in favor of Defendants United States of America, the U.S. Attorney General, DoD, the Central Intelligence Agency and its Director, and the VA and its Secretary. The Army is the sole remaining Defendant in this action.

1 If, however, the Court determines an injunction is necessary, it should enter an injunction 2 that simply directs the Army to provide medical care in accord with AR 70-25 to Plaintiffs and 3 any class members who apply for such care for a medical condition that the Army determines was 4 the proximate result of the testing programs at issue. The Army has set forth a specific plan for 5 carrying out such an injunction. See Hughes Decl. ¶ 9. The Court should reject Plaintiffs’ 6 proposed injunction which substantially exceeds the relief available under the APA, and otherwise 7 would impose unreasonable and improper requirements on the Army.

8 BACKGROUND

9 Plaintiffs’ Fourth Amended Complaint raised four constitutional and APA claims against 10 several federal agencies arising out of the use of military and civilian volunteers in conducting 11 chemical and biological research during World War II and the Cold War. See ECF 486. The only 12 remaining issue is that the certified class is entitled to receive medical care from the Army pursuant 13 to AR 70-25(k), which provides, in part: “Volunteers are authorized all necessary medical care for 14 injury or disease that is a proximate result of their participation in research.” 15

16 This Court previously held that AR 70-25 imposes a duty on the Army to provide medical 17 care to eligible volunteers but declined to impose an injunction on the Army because the VA is 18 charged by Congress with providing health care to veterans and has created a comprehensive VA 19 Health Care System to do so:

20 The DVA, through its Veterans Health Administration, is charged with providing 21 “a complete medical and hospital service for the medical care and treatment of 22 veterans.” 38 U.S.C. § 7301(b). Congress has mandated that it provide hospital 23 care and medical services “to any veteran for a service-connected disability.” 38 24 U.S.C. § 1710. Thus, a “veteran who has a service-connected disability will receive 25 VA care provided for in the ‘medical benefits package’ . . . for that service-26 connected disability,” even if that veteran is “not enrolled in the VA healthcare system.” 38 C.F.R. § 17.37(b). When receiving care for service-connected disabilities, veterans are not subject to any copayment or income eligibility requirements. 38 C.F.R. §§ 17.108(d)(1), (e)(1), 17.111(f)(1), (3).

ECF 544 at 48-49. The Court considered, and rejected, Plaintiffs’ argument that the care owed by DoD was different in scope and quality from that offered by the VA. Id. The Ninth Circuit

1 affirmed, holding that the Army must “provide necessary medical care on an ongoing basis” as a 2 discrete action mandated by AR 70-25(k), see VVA, 811 F.3d at 1082 (“[T]he Army would be 3 required to provide medical care to a relatively small group of living veterans who were injured as 4 a proximate result of the government’s conduct.”). But in rejecting a categorical bar on an 5 injunction, the Court stated that “there is nothing in the record upon which to base a conclusion 6 that the medical care available from the VA would be equal in scope and quality to the medical 7 care that Plaintiffs claim is owed to them by the Army.” Id. The Ninth Circuit left open the 8 possibility that this Court could take into account the VA system in fashioning an injunction. Id.
 9 (“[W]e do not address whether and in what manner the district court might nonetheless take the 10 VA’s provision of medical care into account in formulating an injunction on remand.”).

DISCUSSION

I. AN INJUNCTION IS NOT APPROPRIATE BECAUSE THE MEDICAL CARE AVAILABLE FROM THE VA IS BROADER IN SCOPE THAN CARE AVAILABLE FROM MILITARY TREATMENT FACILITIES.

15 As this Court and others have recognized, Congress has mandated that the VA establish a 16 program for providing veterans with medical care. See ECF 544; Preminger v. Sec’y of Veterans 17 Affairs, 517 F.3d 1299, 1314 (Fed. Cir. 2008); White v. Principi, 243 F.3d 1378, 1381 (Fed. Cir.
 18 2001); and Jaffee v. United States, 663 F.2d 1226, 1236 (3d Cir. 1981).

19 Since the filing of this lawsuit and the Court’s summary judgment decision three years ago, 20 the VA has broadened its health care program. Most notably, in 2014 Congress established the 21 Veterans Choice Program which inter alia increases VA funding to hire more physicians and staff, 22 and allows the VA to authorize care for veterans outside the VA health care system if they meet 23 certain criteria. See PL 113-146 as amended by PL 113-75, 113-235, 114-19, 114-41. The VA
 24 currently has Congressional appropriations of over $59 billion, and provides care to more than 9.2 25 million veterans in 168 hospitals and 1,221 outpatient clinics, located throughout the United States.
 26 See Hughes Decl. ¶ 7. The VA’s “medical benefits package” consists of all necessary inpatient hospital care and outpatient services to promote, preserve or restore veterans’ health. Id. VA

1 medical facilities provide a wide range of services. Id.; 38 C.F.R. § 17.38. Importantly, the VA
2 medical benefits package includes some long-term care services such as a VA nursing home 3 program, domiciliary care, medical foster home, and State Veterans Homes, as well as “geriatric 4 and extended care services for veterans who are elderly and have complex needs, and to veterans 5 of any age who need daily support and assistance.” Id. Veterans who are service-connected for 6 disabilities due to participation in military testing are eligible for health care from the VA for those 7 service-connected disabilities at no cost, and have access to VA facilities for any other health care
8 needs, though there may be a co-pay. See 38 C.F.R. §§ 17.37, 17.38, 17.108, 17.110, 17.111; ECF 9 517. In sum, the VA health care system is specifically set up for the express purpose of providing 10 a wide-range of medical care to veterans, including for service-connected conditions and 11 disabilities.

13 The Army’s legal authority to provide health care must come from Congress. See Bell v.
14 United States, 366 U.S. 393, 401 (1961); see also Schism v. United States, 316 F.3d 1259, 1272 15 (Fed. Cir. 2002) (citing Supreme Court authority that benefits for retired military personnel depend 16 upon the exercise of legislative grace). In contrast to VA care, the only available health care that 17 the Army is Congressionally-authorized to provide to the plaintiff class would be at MTFs, 18 pursuant to its authority under 10 U.S.C. § 1074. In accord with that statutory authority, a 19 “member of a uniformed service” is “entitled to medical and dental care in any facility of any 20 uniformed service,” i.e., in an MTF. Id. § 1074(a)(1) (emphasis added). Plaintiffs are veterans, 21 not members of the uniformed services. Under § 1074(c)(1), the Secretary of Defense and the 22 Secretaries of the service branches have discretionary authority to promulgate regulations 23 establishing eligibility for health care not otherwise created by statute:

24
25 Funds appropriated to a military department . . . may be used to provide medical 26 and dental care to persons entitled to such care by law or regulations, including the provision of such care (other than elective private treatment) in private facilities for members of the uniformed services.

1 Id. § 1074(c)(1). Beyond certain other narrow categories of eligibility, there is no other statutory 2 authority for the provision of health care to non-retiree veterans.² Accordingly, pursuant to 3 § 1074(c), DoD published regulations to create the “Secretarial Designee” or “SECDES” program 4 through which medical care could be provided directly by the Army in MTFs:

5 Secretarial Designee Program. The program established under section 1074(c) to 6 create by regulation an eligibility for health care services in military medical 7 treatment facilities (MTFs) as well as dental treatment facilities for individuals who 8 have no such eligibility under 10 U.S.C. chapter 55.

9 32 C.F.R. § 108.3 (emphasis added). Notably, the SECDES policy makes clear that MTF care is 10 available to Plaintiffs who were research subject volunteers:

11 (i) Research Subject Volunteers. Research subjects are eligible for health care 12 services from MTFs to the extent DoD Components are required by DoD Directive 13 3216.02 to establish procedures to protect subjects from medical expenses that are 14 a direct result of participation in the research.

15 Id. § 108.4(i). In addition, AR 70-25, which underlies this Court’s holding that the Army must 16 provide medical care to Plaintiffs, contemplates that medical care be provided through MTFs:

17 k. Volunteers are authorized all necessary medical care for injury or disease that is 18 a proximate result of their participation in research.

19 (2) Medical care costs for all other categories of personnel, who under the 20 provisions of AR 40–3 are routinely authorized care in a military MTF will be 21 waived for the volunteer while in the hospital, if the volunteer would not normally 22 enter the hospital for treatment but is requested to do so to facilitate the research.
 23 This also applies to a volunteer’s extension of time in a hospital for research when 24 the volunteer is already in the hospital.

25 In short, the relevant provisions of the United States Code, the Code of Federal 26 Regulations, and the Army’s Regulations, make clear that Defendant is limited to providing Plaintiffs medical care through MTFs by using the SECDES authority.

The mission and scope of care available from MTFs differs from the comprehensive health care available from the VA. See Hughes Decl. ¶¶ 6-8. In comparison to health care services at

² The final clause in the pertinent provision in § 1074(c) -- “including the provision of such care
 . . . in private facilities for members of the uniformed services” -- makes clear that the care is through MTFs except if a special provision is made for members of the uniformed services.

1 MTFs, the VA health care system is designed to provide more comprehensive health care services 2 to a smaller and older population through a greater number of facilities nationwide that receive 3 greater funding. Id. While military medical centers and certain hospitals in the Military Health 4 System provide comprehensive health care services comparable to the VA, the Military Health 5 System overall is focused on serving the health care needs of current military service members and 6 their dependents, and is not designed to serve an aging veteran population across all regions of the 7 United States in the comprehensive manner provided by the VHA. Id.

8 For these reasons, the Court can again find that an injunction is not warranted, not as a 9 categorical legal matter—which the Ninth Circuit rejected—but based on the fact that these are 10 two separate, distinct, and markedly different systems, and VA care is designed, intended, and 11 better suited to treat the class plaintiffs nationwide.

 13 II. ALTERNATIVELY, THE COURT SHOULD ENTER AN INJUNCTION LIMITED 14 TO DIRECTING THE ARMY TO PROVIDE HEALTH CARE TO PLAINTIFFS.

15 If the Court determines that an injunction is necessary, the injunction should simply direct 16 the Army to fulfill its obligations under AR 70-25 to provide medical care to plaintiff class 17 members who were exposed to a chemical or biological substance as part of their participation in 18 research, for any “injury or disease that is a proximate result of their participation in the research” 19 (AR 70-25). Defendant has submitted a proposed form of order which provides this relief, and has 20 set forth a plan for how the Army will carry out such an injunction. See Hughes Decl. ¶ 9. But 21 the Court should decline Plaintiffs’ invitation to impose particular detailed requirements for how 22 the Army must carry out this mandate. The claim at issue is whether the Army violated § 706 of 23 the APA by failing to provide health care to Plaintiffs. See Fourth Amended Compl. ¶¶ 22, 128, 24 189(c). As this Court has noted (see ECF 544 at 21), a “claim under § 706(1) can proceed only 25 where a plaintiff asserts that an agency failed to take a discrete agency action that it is required to 26 take.” Sea Hawk Seafoods, Inc. v. Locke, 568 F.3d 757, 766 (9th Cir. 2009) (quoting Norton v. S.
Utah Wilderness Alliance (SUWA), 542 U.S. 55, 64 (2004)). Plaintiffs prevailed on their claim that the provision of health care under AR 70-25 was required by § 706(1), and that is the 1 appropriate, limited scope of what the Court may order. Section 706 does not otherwise open the 2 door for the Court to impose specific additional requirements on the agency's discretion in carrying 3 out that discrete agency obligation, precisely because AR 70-25 only requires the provision of 4 care. AR 70-25 leaves to the Army's discretion how that care is to be provided, how proximate 5 cause is to be determined, and how any other particulars relating to that care are to be undertaken 6 by the Army. Because the regulation itself is limited in scope, the Court's injunction necessarily 7 must be so limited. SUWA, 524 U.S. at 64.

8 Accordingly, if the Court intends to enter an injunction, it should do no more than enter the 9 straightforward proposed form of order Defendant has submitted, and not otherwise restrict the 10 Army's discretion to carry out this mandate. The Army has created a Plan for implementing such 11 an injunction. See Hughes Decl., Attachment 5 (Army Plan). Under the Army's Plan, a class 12 member would submit an application explaining why he and his treating physician believe the 13 injury or illness is caused by the exposure, as well as documentation supporting the applicant's 14 claim, including relevant medical records, Army personnel records, and any VA service 15 connection decisions. See id. The Army will establish a Benefits Application Panel to review 16 completed applications and determine whether the "proximate result" standard set forth in AR 70-17 25 has been met.³ The Panel will consist of at least three medical professionals who will consider 18 relevant evidence and factors as per ¶ 4 of the Army's Plan.

20 If the Panel determines the proximate result test has been met, the Panel will request 21 SECDES status for the applicant so he can receive medical care for the research related medical 22 condition. If the Secretary of the Army grants the request for SECDES status, the applicant will 23 be provided with an access ID card entitling him to receive treatment for the approved condition 24 at the MTF closest to his residence with the capability to treat that condition. The applicant will 25

26 ³ Both this Court and the Ninth Circuit acknowledged the significance of the proximate result standard. See ECF No. 544 at 47 (Plaintiffs are entitled to "medical care for disabilities, injuries or illnesses caused by their participation in government experiments."); VVA, 811 F.3d at 1080 ("[T]est subjects must show they suffer from diseases that are a proximate result of their participation in government experiments.")

NO. C 09-37 CW

DEFENDANTS' RESPONSE TO THE COURT'S ORDER REGARDING A PROPOSED HEALTH CARE INJUNCTION

1 not have any co-pay or any charge for his care at the MTF. If the Panel denies a class member's 2 application, that would be a final agency decision that is subject to judicial review.

3 The Army's proposed plan is an appropriate exercise of agency discretion that is entitled 4 to deference. See VVA, 811 F.3d at 1080; Firebaugh Canal Co. v. United States, 203 F.3d 568, 5 578 (9th Cir. 2000). Section 706 of the APA does not permit "broad programmatic attacks" under 6 the rubric of reviewing discrete agency action. SUWA, 542 U.S. at 64-66 (rejecting APA challenge 7 where a statute provided a mandatory object to be achieved, but also provided the agency with "a 8 great deal of discretion in deciding how to achieve it"). Here, the Court has held that a mandate 9 to provide medical care exists, and can so order that, but should not otherwise impose particular 10 non-discrete obligations on the Army in carrying out that mandate.

11 III. PLAINTIFFS' PROPOSED INJUNCTION IS NOT APPROPRIATE

12 To the extent the Court intends to issue a more specific injunction than the form Defendant 13 has proposed, it should at least hew to the approach set forth in the Army's Plan in doing so. In 14 no event should the Court adopt the terms of Plaintiffs' proposed injunction, which not only exceed 15 the relief allowable under the APA but would impose unnecessary, onerous, and inappropriate 16 requirements on the Army.⁴

17 Most notably, contrary to the controlling regulations and the law of the case, Plaintiffs'
18 ¶ 2 attempts to substitute a "diagnosed as or plausibly associated with" standard for the AR 70-25 19 standard of "proximate result," the core governing standard in the regulation at issue, in flat 20 contravention of what this Court and the Ninth Circuit recognized would apply.

21 Plaintiffs' ¶ 6 seeks to have the Army do physical examinations of all test subjects to 22 determine eligibility for medical care. But such a requirement is nowhere apparent in AR 70-25, 23 and is not the kind of discrete agency action that can or should be compelled by a court. The Army 24 intends to undertake an administrative process in which the relevant evidence will be collected of

⁴ Plaintiffs' proposal begins with eight "Whereas" clauses that are unnecessary, beyond the necessary scope of any injunction, argumentative, and contested. Their inclusion in any injunction alone risks further litigation.

1 a person's participation in the research at issue, medical diagnosis, and whether a medical 2 condition was the proximate result of the exposure at issue. See Army Plan ¶ 3. This is the proper 3 approach to determining whether particular individuals are eligible for health care.

4 Plaintiffs' ¶ 3 seeks the appointment of a special master to oversee the Army's compliance 5 with an injunction, and Plaintiffs' ¶ 7 purports to give a special master the power to overrule an 6 Army decision on eligibility for medical care or make that decision in the first instance if the Army 7 has not issued a decision within 45 days, make that decision final and binding on the Army, and 8 impose court monitoring of that process. These proposed provisions are unwarranted and contrary 9 to law. Most notably, any further judicial review of individual adjudications of a person's 10 eligibility for health care should proceed in the normal course under applicable law (which would 11 be APA review) and in an appropriate forum. While this Court could oversee whether its 12 injunction is being carried out, such individual adjudications would be different claims, on 13 individualized records, rather than the broad policy claims this Court has reviewed.

15 Plaintiffs' special master proposal has other significant flaws. Federal Rule of Civil 16 Procedure 53, "Masters," does not permit an appointed master to issue final, binding decisions that 17 are not reviewable in district court. The types of individual agency determinations that will be at 18 issue are subject to APA review by a judicial officer only. In addition, imposing a time limit after 19 which a non-judicial officer could grant eligibility to health care is particularly inappropriate given 20 the potential size of the class, potential delays in obtaining a complete record and then issuing a 21 final agency decision on the matter.⁵ Moreover, to the extent delay in obtaining decisions on 22 eligibility is a concern, the APA provides for this contingency too -- the applicant has the right to 23 move to "compel agency action unlawfully withheld or unreasonably delayed." 5 U.S.C. § 706(1).
24 The Army's Plan establishes a panel of medical experts with the appropriate expertise to determine 25 whether the applicant's exposure was the proximate cause of his medical condition. See Army 26

⁵ Plaintiffs argued in their motion for class certification that "the Proposed Class has at least tens of thousands of members." See Order, ECF 485. DoD identified 6,400 service members and civilians who were exposed to mustard agents and other chemical substances during WWII and approximately 7,000 service members who were Cold War-era test participants.

1 Plan ¶¶ 4, 7. A non-judicial officer cannot override this process simply because it takes more than 2 45 days or at any point.

3 Plaintiffs’ ¶ 7(a) seeks to define the scope of the applicable administrative record available 4 to the special master, which is the province of the administrative agency to assemble and present
5 to a reviewing court. Plaintiffs’ ¶ 4(a), (b) and ¶ 5 would have the Army provide status reports 6 to the Court every three months that are not required by AR 70-25, and are well beyond what is 7 necessary or appropriate. Plaintiffs’ ¶ 4(c), (d), (e) would have the Army describe how it will 8 determine eligibility for care, notify the class, and provide care – but the Army has already 9 provided a plan doing all those things. See Army Plan ¶¶ 1, 4-6. As to Plaintiffs’ ¶ 8, the parties 10 are in agreement that the medical care offered by the Army is in addition to the medical care 11 available to the class through the VA (see Army Plan FN 1). However, Plaintiffs would add in a 12 clause that “the Army should provide referrals to DVA facilities and/or private physicians for free 13 medical care.” But Plaintiffs are fully aware that the VA is no longer a defendant in this litigation 14 and cannot be compelled to provide medical care; they appealed this Court’s sensible 15 determination that VA care was already available to them; and, in any event, the Army cannot be 16 compelled to ensure that another agency’s health care system will be available to the plaintiff class.
17 Nor does the Army have any statutory authority to pay private physicians to provide medical care 18 to Plaintiffs. See supra Section I (care to be provided at MTFs); 10 U.S.C. § 1074; 32 C.F.R.
19 §§ 108.3, 108.4; AR 70-25. Plaintiffs have sued to obtain health care directly from the Army, and 20 that is all the relief the Court has discretion under existing statutory and regulatory authority to 21 afford them. For all these reasons, Plaintiffs’ proposed injunction provides no reasonable 22 guideposts for the Court to follow should it decide to issue an injunction.

24 CONCLUSION

25 For the reasons set forth above, no medical care injunction is appropriate, but if one is 26 entered, the Court should issue a limited order as Defendant proposes and defer to the Army’s proposed implementation plan.
